To Improve Mail Service In The City

In the interest of improving the local mail service, a survey in Statesboro was completed on Monday of this week by Frank Hook, local assistant postmaster, to determine additional needs and requesting constructive suggestions as to how local mail service could be improved. According to information obtained on the survey, the contact made with all local business houses requesting their suggestions or comments.

In releasing the information Mr. Hook stated that two additional collection boxes had only recently been installed for the convenience of local patrons. One of the boxes is located in front of the Aldred Hotel and will be turned into a courier's mail box which will provide mailing for motorists and tourists from the afternoon through the evening. The second box is located in front of the City Dairy, on West Main Street. Plans also call for the erection of a third box in the rear of Howard Johnson's restaurant providing service to both Motel Restaurant and postal patrons at that section.

A speed up mail delivery service has been brought within recent weeks by the change in schedule of the delivery of the 11:15 a.m. mail. The mail is now delivered to the morning delivery. The effect of this change was to bring about a five to six hour advance in the delivery of mail received on the morning train.

According to an announcement by the local postal office, the lobby of the local post office is no longer closed at 9:00 P. M. as it has in the past. The lobby is now open 24 hours a day as a convenience to the public.

Invitation To Visit GTC February 7

To all who have an interest in Georgia Teachers College:

As we come to the celebration of the 48th anniversary of the educational institution we realize that our interests are different. The people who were here as students in the early years are thrilled as they visualize the college as they say it and compare it with what they find here today. The students who were here during the transition years of 1924 and 1929 have some of the same feeling because they saw the future of the school change from a high school to a normal school, to a teachers college. Each step in the growth of the college opened new doors for the education of the people of the state. In the period from 1907-1924 many boys and girls in the First District were given an opportunity to attend high school. Since 1924 the college has opened a college education for many young people in this section of the state. The Regents action in November 1957, giving the college permission to offer graduate work in education opens a little wider door for the service for boys and girls by providing for their better teachers.

For me personally this is a happy day. I visited the college for the first time in the spring of 1927 and began teaching in the college in June of 1928. It was my happy privilege to serve with Presidents Wells, Pittman, Galt, and Moore. I have seen the college today and with all its possibilities I never lose sight of the fact that what it is now is the result of the hard work of the men and women who have given many years of devoted service to the college. One of the great joys of my work here has been the knowledge of the fine spirit of the student body. Through the years, faculty members, people of the community and visitors to the campus have talked about our fine student body. On many occasions I have said that one of the main reasons for the progress which has been made at Georgia Teachers College is the excellent devotion and love the students have for their alma mater.

To extend to all of you a most cordial welcome to the Homecoming weekend and to the Fifth Anniversary of the college's founding.
